Speaker Provincial Assembly Sindh, Syed Awais Qadir Shah, expresses condolences on the passing of Prince Karim Aga Khan, spiritual leader of the Ismaili community and head of the Aga Khan Development Network

Speaker of the Sindh Assembly, Syed Awais Qadir Shah, has expressed deep sorrow over the passing of Prince Karim Aga Khan, the spiritual leader of the Ismaili community and the head of the Aga Khan Development Network.

"Deeply saddened to hear about the passing of Prince Karim Aga Khan," said Speaker Syed Awais Qadir Shah.

He described Prince Karim Aga Khan as a remarkable human being and a true servant of humanity, whose contributions to education, healthcare, and welfare will always be remembered.

"Prince Karim Aga Khan devoted his life to uplifting underprivileged communities and improving their quality of life," said the Speaker.

He acknowledged the pivotal role the Aga Khan Development Network has played in promoting education and healthcare in Pakistan.

"Prince Karim Aga Khan always preached peace, tolerance, and mutual respect. His tireless efforts in the service of humanity are truly commendable," he added.

"The people of Pakistan mourn the passing of Prince Karim Aga Khan," said Speaker Syed Awais Qadir Shah.

He prayed, "May Allah grant Prince Karim Aga Khan the highest place in Jannah and give patience to his loved ones."
